SAFE SPACE and ACCOUNTABILITY

@The Canvas

The Canvas supports and enables positive activism, by working with our growing community to launch ideas that improve the lives of others. And deciding what is 'positive' for everyone is tough sometimes.

The Canvas believes humans are amazing, and as such open our doors with a warm welcome to everyone. And we will not welcome behaviour that is abusive/unsafe or attacking to others, whether verbal or physical.

The Canvas acknowledges that we all hold our own beliefs and opinions respective of religion, sexuality, age, identity, race, politics, diet, neuro type, ability, geography, culture, nationality etc. And each of us is responsible and accountable for our actions and words.

The Canvas is a space for all to come together and express ideas in an accepting and safe space.

Anyone showing lack of respect and accountability for ones' self and others will be asked politely to leave.

Acceptance does not mean agreement, it means acknowledging difference and proposing alternatives without judgement or force.
